Quality Education Institute of Durham is a private elementary school in Southeast Durham. Celebrating its eleventh year in 2009, QEI has grown from three students in 1998 to over 100 students enrolled this year. Growth of the school is attributed to the success of students in the classroom and the satisfaction of parents who choose to enroll their children in the school's challenging and rewarding curriculum.

QEI's curriculum uses a combination of traditional and innovative instructional strategies, which serve to motivate and enhance the students' total learning development. These strategies involve parents, teachers, and members of the community to help educate the children and provide an impetus to developing growing young minds.

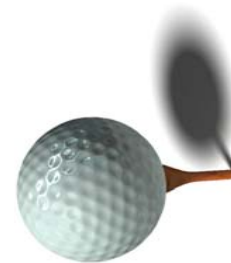

Some of the reasons parents send their children to QEI include low student-to-teacher ratios, a rigorous academic curriculum, a safe and secure environment for learning, personalized education plans for each child, emphasis on character development and citizenship, and a year-round schedule with before and after-school care.

QEI's Mission - Our identity and purpose

QEI-Durham is a private school dedicated to partnering with parents and the community to provide a holistic, child-centered approach to learning, founded on truth, respect, self-discipline, honor, integrity, and love. These principles permeate the school's curriculum and are evident in day-to-day interactions between students and their teachers.
